

BARTON COURT FARM (Oxfordshire)

SU 510 977

Barton Court Farm lies near Abingdon in Oxfordshire within the Upper Thames Valley on top of calcaneous soils (pH 7.8) (Miles 1986, 1:A5 [microfiche]). Excavations at Barton Court Farm began in 1972 and ran until 1976 (Miles 1986, xiii). The archaeological investigations revealed a Late Iron Age farmstead where the interior area covers close to 0.35 ha (Miles 1986, 3:B11 [microfiche]). The Late Iron Age inhabitants engaged in farming and animal rearing, specifically cattle and sheep (Wilson 1986, 8:A1 [microfiche]). In addition, excavations recovered eight occurrences of Late Iron Age human remains which consisted of seven inhumations and one cremation (Harman and Miles 1986). M. Harman and D. Miles compiled the osteological report for Barton Court Farm.

- There is no context record sheet due to lack of information