

Contents

List of Figures.....	xv
List of Tables.....	xxi
Note on Conventions	xxii
1. Research Scope and Context.....	1
Introduction	1
Research Scope and Context.....	1
Topographical Setting, Isolation – Insulation – Identity	3
Rationale Behind a Trans-Peninsular Route.....	4
Research Aims.....	4
General Objectives of the Study.....	4
2. General Methodology and Approaches.....	7
Approaches.....	7
Toponymic Evidence.....	7
Methodology	8
The Hypothesis for a Route: Marine Environment v Overland Route.....	8
Tangible Evidence	8
Supporting Evidence and Secondary Sources	8
A Thematic Approach Through Settlement and Overview of Research Sites.....	9
Excavation	9
3. Out on a Limb: The Geomorphology of Cornwall, the Atlantic Climatic Influence and the Archaeological Context of the Study Period.....	11
Introduction	11
The Geomorphology of Cornwall	11
Coastline Changes and Sea-Level Rises for the Camel and Fowey Estuaries	11
Cultural Aspects: Settlement Morphologies – a Discussion	12
Enclosures: Diverse Typologies	13
Socio-Political Dynamics and Identity in Settlement.....	14
Open Settlement	15
Roman Military Influence in Cornwall and the Corridor	15
Post-Roman Change in Settlement Pattern – Background to Social Change with Elements of Continuity Through Ceramics	18
Beach Sites	19
Christianity	20
Previous Archaeological Work	20
Major Sites Mentioned in this Study.....	20
Trethury	20
Carvossa	21
Kilhallon.....	21
Gwithian	21
Tintagel.....	22
Contemporary Inter-Trade Routes with Cornwall	22
Late Iron Age.....	22
Trade Routes in the Roman Period.....	24
Trade Routes in the Post-Roman Period	25
4. The Camel and Fowey Corridor in Its Contemporary Setting: Tin, ‘Maritima’ and the Theory Underpinning a Cross-Peninsular Route.....	29
The Cassiterides: Cornwall in Late Prehistoric and Proto-Historic Times to ‘Invasion’ AD 43	29
Tin: The Contemporary Evidence	30
Naval Matters	31
Difficulties of Sailing the Celtic Sea and Wreck Evidence	33

Rounding the 'Parte Occidentale'	35
Summary of Maritime Perspectives: Sea V Land – Validation of the Route Theory.....	37
5. Camel and Fowey Corridor: Late Iron Age and Roman Periods.....	39
Introduction.....	39
Communications to and Across the Corridor: Signals of Evidence Through Fieldwork.....	39
All Roads Lead to Minerals.....	39
High Cliff.....	41
East Leigh.....	43
Pabyer Point	44
Sites in Common	47
Research Findings: Settlement and Roman Involvement in the Corridor.....	49
Kingswood Round.....	49
Lestow	51
Restormel	55
Nanstallon Fort	58
Monetary Systems, Economy and Coin Evidence Across the Corridor	59
Continuity and Change: Independence Through Obdurate Traditionalism or Economic and Peripheral Determinism and Latent Romanitas	62
6. The Corridor as a Christianised Landscape: of Saints, Lanns, Dedications and Memorial Pillars	67
Introduction.....	67
Byzantine Connections.....	67
Continuity of Polity.....	68
Christianity's Influence	68
Memorial Pillars.....	69
Stones Through Time: Enlightenment.....	69
Seaways of the Saints, Hagiographies and their Mark on the Landscape.....	71
Saints Through the Corridor.....	73
Sampsonis: Hagiography Considered, Lanow, St Sampson Church and Langorthou	75
Place-Name Distribution Analysis with Lann Elements and Saint Dedications	84
7. East Camel Estuary Case Study: Settlement Sites, Continuity and Change in The Landscape	87
Introduction.....	87
Locational and Settlement Description	87
Notes on Fieldwork from The Settlement Study Sites.....	88
Carruan	88
Middle Amble	92
Daymer Bay and Hinterland.....	95
St Enodoc and Trebetherick	98
Trebetherick.....	100
Porthilly	101
Lanow	102
Tregays on The Fowey River	103
Discussion	106
Summary	110
8. Discussion: Socio-Economic Dynamics, Settlement and Continuity	111
Site Maps.....	111
The Trans-Peninsula Land Route or the Longer Precarious Sea Passage?	111
Tangible Route Evidence	113
Evidence for Use of the Corridor as a Route and Exploitation of Resources	119
Settlement Development, Form and Place in the Landscape and Outside Influences to AD700.....	121
Population	122
Settlement Socio-Economic	123
Pushing Back the Boundaries: Current Perceptions Contradicted – Security Through Tin?.....	124
A Borderline Question: Roman Involvement and Romanitas.....	126
Roman Interaction Through Design.....	126
Absence of Roman Infrastructure, Continuity and Identity	128

Economy and Transition	131
Pottery Via the Atlantic Seaways: Tintagel's Influence on the Fowey and Camel Corridor.....	131
The Decline of Pottery Imports in the Corridor: Precursor to Social Change?	136
Changes in Settlement and Social Structure.....	137
Early Christianity in the Corridor: What Can be Learnt From Fieldwork and Can a Correlation be Found to Early Literary Evidence?.....	138
9. Conclusions: Exploring The Social Dynamics Behind a Trans-Peninsular Route.....	141
Roman Interaction.....	141
Socio-Economy	142
The Early Medieval Corridor and Christianity	142
Settlement.....	142
Continuity.....	143
The Corridor – Summary	144
Scope for Further Research.....	144
Bibliography	145
Websites	159
Ancient Sources	159